

RECRUITING FUND FOR BATTERY A GROWING

The recruiting fund for Battery A, First separate battalion, Tennessee field artillery, being organized in Memphis, is increasing. Approximately $225 has been sent in to Treasurer John T. Walsh, president of the North Memphis Savings bank, by business men asked to contribute $10 each. The amount necessary to cover all expenses coincident with the organization of the unit is $750.

Additional checks for $10 continue to drift in each day. The unit will be composed of young men of the city, being an exclusive local outfit.

"The Memphis business men should realize more vividly the necessity for adequate military protection," declared Capt. John T. Shea, commanding, Monday. "The incident at Savannah, Tenn., where the mob threatened to lynch two innocent negroes, as well as those convicted of the murder of a merchant, and the recent threats of I. W. W. in East Tennessee, should bring home the real meaning of such protection."

Active work of recruiting to make the summer encampment will begin next Monday, having been postponed on account of the troops going to Savannah. A tent will be erected in Court square, banners will be placed across Main street, sides will be shown in the picture shows and every means taken to obtain the needed 125 men. The encampment at Fort Sill, Okla., will be made about July 25.

Police Get Second Lad In Auto Trio

In the arrest of Robert J. Mays, 17, 803 South Cooper street, early Sunday night, Memphis police say they have the second of the trio of boys who, after having stolen an automobile from this city, disappeared a policeman in Jackson, Miss., when placed under arrest, and thusly made their escape. Mays has confessed, according to Detective Sergts. Taylor and Durham, to his part in the transaction.

Jesse Ginn, another Memphis youth, was arrested in Jackson, having remained with the car when the officers gave pursuit, after they first escaped. The third youth, said to have been Son Russell, also of Memphis, is still at large.

According to detectives, the boys got in trouble in Dyersburg, Tenn., and when they didn't have enough money to pay Mays' fine, Ginn came to Memphis, took the Case car of C. E. Diff, and, with Son Russell and some money, went back to Dyersburg, where they paid Mays out. Then the trio are alleged to have driven through to Jackson, Miss.

Mays was to face City Judge Barker Monday afternoon on a charge of larceny.

MEMPHIS AND WESTERN TENNESSEE MEN GOING

W. H. Hayley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by R. N. Ware, representative from Missouri, and Bruce Y. Glascock, representative from Tiptonville, will leave Memphis Monday night to attend a meeting of the state chamber of commerce at Nashville May 11. Representatives from other organizations from West Tennessee will join the delegation from Memphis.

This marks the first meeting of the state organization and it is expected that matters of vital importance concerning the welfare and activities of the body will be presented at the gathering. In addition to the election of officers and board of directors, other questions that will be brought up are health laws; increased pay for teachers; methods of advertising resources of the state; securing tax exemption for chambers of commerce; establishment of a department of prevention legislation detrimental to various communities; and the investigation of all bills presented to the legislature.

According to Mr. Hayley, Memphis is entitled to hold an office in the state body, but no names have been mentioned as to who will be selected. It is likely that a prominent Nashville man will be chosen as president.
